

The following is a transcript of the opening of Reading No. 5 at the 2008 Annual Spiritual Retreat with Ron and Susan Scolastico, Discovering The Mysteries of the Christ Force.

The Sound of Jesus

DR. RON SCOLASTICO: In this moment of time, I open myself completely to all that is good, to perfection, to love. I open myself that I may be of service to these ones. I attune to the souls of these ones, in love, that together we may bring forth truth into earth. And we stand believing in love and all good.

THE GUIDES: We are here in this time, and at this point, there is enough understanding in the mind of each, in their own way, to reveal certain mysteries that have tantalized ones through the years in their own way.

The understanding begins with sound. If you could hear certain words spoken in the language that has been named the Aramaic language, there would come echoes across time that would stimulate in your present self an extraordinary feeling of being surrounded by the most remarkable, comforting, soothing, loving sounds. This would be the voice of the human Jesus speaking to your human ears, in terms of time, many thousands of years ago. And, this would establish forever in you, a certain sensitivity to certain sounds.

In subsequent lifetimes, you would search for humans who would echo the timbre, the range, the sound that had so transformed you in the past. And, in a similar way, the physical appearance and emanations from the human Jesus as he would stand before you, as he would touch your human body, would expand upon the experience of perfect love, the experience of engaging divine perfection as a human and forever establishing in your human patterns a hunger to draw near to a similar kind of human appearance or expression.

Through the lifetimes of each of you, this would of course be colored by many other experiences, some not so inspiring, some challenging. So, it would be as though you have been given a precious diamond. And, you put it in a jewelry and you wear it with such a sense of its beauty and its brilliance. And then, you come to a jewelry place in the marketplace with a large vat of similar jewelries made of glass. You accidentally drop your precious diamond in the large bin. It becomes mixed in. So it does not mean the glass jewelries are bad or wrong. They are simply not as precious.

You ones have many memories from this present lifetime which generally need your attention. And, you have hidden memories from the time of Palestine in which the extraordinary majesty and perfect love of the divine was demonstrated to you by a living human, given to you with a certain unlimitedness. These unconscious memories weave with your present memories of a positive nature. And, they weave with your desires.

So, many times, for example, the desire for sensual fulfillment, which you could call a natural human desire, is intensified as you not-consciously hunger for a kind of completion that perhaps in certain stages of your life, you can only experience in strong sensual pleasure. But, the deep, true hunger is for that experience of being perfectly loved by a perfect human.

So, often, in the mating experiences—and of course you are loving the present human, and that is important, and you can rejoice in it—most of you are attempting to re-create the perfect love experience that you felt, and had often in the time of Palestine under the guidance and power of the human Jesus.

In a sense, you were trained to take that power, and through many lifetimes, you promised to learn more and more how to embody that power and give it to others, just as it was given to you. Just as a teacher of teachers, you were taught by the most extraordinary teacher of love that has ever lived on this earth.

Then, you were sent forward. From the conscious point of view, that teacher is not telling you how to teach now, but that teacher has taught you how to teach. And, you are attempting, through a number of lifetimes, to develop that ability, to become more and more powerful in loving other human beings in the ways that reveal all of the mysteries of life on earth, and beyond earth.

It is difficult for present human minds to understand how an experience of what you call love—which to you ones is an emotion that comes and goes—how that could embody, contain, circumscribe, include, all mysteries of life. It will take you some time to understand that.

But, if you begin with the central focus of imagining unconscious memories that you have, you could imagine in your attunement periods that you are experiencing the sound of an extraordinary voice that is so filled with love. As those words are spoken to you personally, about you personally, you are melted with love. You are made soft, and fluid, and perfect inwardly in the experience of love.

Then, as there would be the physical human presence emanating extraordinary kinds of forces that at times you could literally see illuminating his physical body, extending outward from that body, there would come the ultimate knowing-experiencing, that, in words, would need to be: There is only perfect love. All else is a temporary manifestation.

When you have the desire to not simply think about perfection, or think about perfect love, but to feel it, remember that each of you has enough direct experience of personal love from the time of Palestine—face to face with the human Jesus, having been embraced physically by that extraordinary being whose only desire was to love you. Not to seek his own pleasure, his own comfort, his own aggrandizement, but in that moment, his only desire was to love you totally, completely.

When you now look at the human Jesus—one, you can understand that you are looking “backwards,” in terms of time, and you are looking at fragments of information brought forward by humans through the ages. Most of you understand that this information is human-created.

The Jesus-one did not write the Biblical words. The Jesus-one did not write the histories, the interpretations.

There came the living experience and embodiment of divine perfection in the human Jesus. There came extraordinary energies that are indescribable, that have penetrated every atom of physical matter in the entire universe with a new kind of divine force. This force lives in, and augments, every living cell in every living physical body

There came the opening in the extraordinarily complex structures of human selves, created by eternal souls, such that those selves were added to, given a deeper dimension by extraordinary realities from the explosion of the Christ Force as it was fully embodied by the Jesus human.

That has made possible, in your present self, a certain kind of transcendence of the ordinary. So, the use of imagination to imagine that you are remembering what you hold beneath your conscious awareness of the experience of being perfectly loved by the Jesus human, begins to trigger—as though an explosive device has been placed into a cave to make explosion to loosen raw diamonds—the willful choice of turning your attention to the experience of perfect love that still lives within you—even though you cannot remember that experience, you can imagine it—sets off a kind of explosion that causes walls of human habit, rigidity, and even negativity to crumble. Then, you can penetrate deeper into the treasures.

There are many words, and ideas, and intellectual concepts that you can use to trigger the reawakening of experiences that have lived in you for many lifetimes. The key to remembering those experiences is to realize, and to be willing to believe that, the perfect love was given to you in the most extraordinary way by the human Jesus, and, the power to give that gift has been turned over to you, in the human sense. Since the human Jesus is not now, in terms of time, expressing at this point in a physical body, but you are, you become the vehicle, if you choose, to be taking the place of the Jesus human.

In that past period of Palestine, there was only one Jesus human. In this present period, there are millions expressing that love, to varying degrees. Some of it is woven with confusion, some of it, in some humans, is more clear and uncluttered by human complexity.

In fleshing out your imagination of having been loved by the physical, human Jesus in a perfect way, you can always find a focal point. See it as if your imagination passes through scenes, as though you are looking at photographs, and they are all beautiful. But, one of them particularly touches your heart.

If you had conscious memory of numerous moments of inspiration and love that you personally lived, in terms of time, in the past in the land of the Palestine, and you are looking through those memories, you would find what you might call the ultimate high-point experience—the image, the picture of the most extraordinary, most intense experience of being loved by the human Jesus—out of many experiences of being loved in that way. It need not be factual to your mind. It need not be vivid to your visual inner imaging. It only needs to touch your heart, to stir in you, once again, at least a portion of that extraordinary, perfect love.

So, you can begin each attunement period by a certain imagining of a presence standing before you, emanating golden light, emanating the most perfect, harmonious sounds of the words spoken in the Aramaic language, emanating an extraordinary force of valuing you, loving you in the most perfect ways.

Use whatever visual focus serves you in this. Some of you will stimulate memories of the face of the Master, some the movements, some the scent of certain herbal applications placed on your body by his physical hand. The deepest focus, for many, will be the feeling of the embrace that penetrates you to the depths of your being with a supreme goodness, a perfect love.

Now, for the curious who would say, “I wish to know the history of the human that manifested as the Jesus of Nazareth,” the beginning stages are quite shrouded, for there are no tangible reference points in the souls’ beginning outside of time. But, to have something to think about, you can imagine a grouping of souls—vast, desiring intensification of their divine experience. And, extraordinary, indescribable forces were wielded by those souls, if you will, under the “leadership” of a certain soul.

This was done to carry out certain processes, from outside of time, that created time, distance, space, and physical “particles.”

Then, those souls gradually oversaw what became, in its outcome of the extraordinary processes, what you would call the physical universe.

Then, eventually, the human beings—the energy selfs—and eventually the manipulation of the present planet earth to prepare it to be inhabited.

There was a long sequence of events under the leadership of the soul that you would understand as the soul that eventually manifested as the human Jesus. That soul oversaw the very first physical entering of the human selfs.

Then, that was a leadership soul in many human eras, so that the gradual perfecting of human choices made by that soul through its human expressions on earth eventually culminated in a perfect human—you might say the first perfect human since the “fall” of humans, so to speak.

The pathway walked to attain that perfection is the example, the guiding light to all humans moving along the path of mastery of human life on earth.
